THE PRINCESS AND THE CAPTAIN—Britain's Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips of the Queen's Dragoon Guards, who were married at Westminster Abbey today, pose at Windsor Castle. Her engagement ring, barely visible, has sapphire and diamond settings.

Princess Anne Weds Commoner In TV Spectacle

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, the only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, married a commoner cavalry captain today in a televised spectacle that gave Britons a brief respite from economic crisis and threats of an oil shortage.

Anne, 23, became the bride of Capt. Mark Phillips, 25-year-old son of a wealthy food company executive. The queen did not give her a new son-in-law a title, at his request, and her daughter became "The Princess Anne, Mrs. Mark Phillips."

Anne still is fourth in line for the throne, but with three healthy brothers she's not likely ever to occupy it.

Fifteen hundred guests jammed into Westminster Abbey for the ceremony, and more than 500 million persons around the world were expected to tune in to the live telecasts. British schoolchildren were given a holiday, and cheering crowds watched the royal family drive to the Abbey in state coaches — the queen with Prince Charles, her eldest son, and Anne with her father, Prince Philip, in a glass coach.

Troops of the Coldstream Guards, the Irish Guards, the Gurkha Rifles, the Royal Air Force, Navy and Marines, and from Phillips' regiment, the Queen's Dragoon Guards, lined the route down the flag-draped Mall and past St. James's Park, the government offices in Whitehall and the Houses of Parliament.

A typically dry, cloudy and "rather cold" November day was predicted for the wedding, but instead it was bright and sunny for the princess.

"Never mind the cold, dear," said an early arrival outside the Abbey, Mrs. Elsie Sharples of Beckenham. "I wouldn't miss being here for worlds. Takes you right out of yourself, a wedding does. Especially a royal one."

For her wedding dress Anne passed up such royal couturiers as Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies and went to the ready-to-wear house of Susan Small for a white silk gown cut on the princess line with a high Edwardian collar of tiny pin tucks, and Elizabethan sleeves edged with pearls and mirrored jewels over finely pleated white chiffon undersleeves.

A transparent train of embroidered silk net fell from the shoulders, and her veil of white silk net was held in place by a diamond tiara borrowed from her grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth. Beneath it Anne's blonde hair was swept back from a center part and combed full at the sides.

Imbedded in the bride's bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley, orchids and orange blossoms was a sprig of myrtle grown from myrtle used in Queen Victoria's wedding bouquet.

The princess beamed and waved to the cheering crowds as the Glass Coach took her with her father to the Abbey. Philip, like his daughter all smiles, wore the uniform of an admiral of the fleet.

Queen Elizabeth, her oldest son, Prince Charles, and the queen mother led the procession of royal coaches to the Abbey. Today was also the 25th birthday of Charles, the heir to the throne, but the anniversary was pushed into the background by his sister's wedding.

Anne and Mark exchanged their wedding vows in firm, steady voices and looked at each other as the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, pronounced them man and wife.

"Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder," the archbishop intoned at the climax of a ceremony identical to the one used in Anglican weddings throughout the country. And like the brides in most of those weddings, Anne promised to obey as well as serve, love and honor her husband.

The ring Phillips put on the bride's finger came from the same nugget of gold mined in Wales that the wedding rings of her mother and Princess Margaret were made from.

Small Car Sales Soar In Buckeye State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The fuel shortage, rising gasoline prices and reports of possible rationing have caused small car sales to soar across Ohio.

Salesmen in Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland report heavy surges of small car buyers.

Those buyers are finding a sellers' market, with few cars available and little discount on those. They're also finding their big-car trade-in worth less because of the gasoline shortage.

And they're buying anyway.

"We're busy from the time we open our doors to the time we close," said Danny Papernoster, salesman at Dick Clifton Motors Inc. in Columbus, a Fiat and AMC dealership.

"They don't fight," he said. "If the price is $3,000, they pay it."

"This gasoline thing has people scared to death," he said.

Hugh White Chevrolet in Columbus sells the Honda car as well as the Vega. It's out of both.

Tell All, Nixon Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — After being lectured by 15 Republican senators on ways to cleanse his administration of Watergate scandals, President Nixon promised anew today that he would "start very soon with full disclosure of the facts."

Continuing a series of sessions with all Republican members of Congress, Nixon met today with 75 House members gathered in the State Dining Room.

According to one of those present, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. R-N.Y., the President "drew a cheer" when he vowed he would not resign.

He had made the same vow Tuesday night when he received the advice of 15 GOP senators. At that meeting, there were suggestions that Nixon resign or submit himself voluntarily to the impeachment process — ideas the President rejected.

Fish told reporters after today's meeting that Nixon discussed the full range of charges made against his administration and promised to start very soon with "full disclosure of the facts."

Rep. LaMar Barker, R-Tenn., said Nixon's pledge for a full disclosure "is good news for us."

Nixon fielded questions from the audience during the hourlong session and "it was a polite meeting," he said.

Rep. George A. Goodling of Pennsylvania told reporters that Nixon was "very forthright" and "told us some of the things we needed to know."

Rep. Albert H. Quie of Minnesota said that Nixon provided answers on the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and milk fund cases that "were satisfactory." He said Nixon eventually will make his case in meetings with the press, editors, commentators and on television once federal Judge John J. Sirica finishes the court requirements in the case.

Quie also said that Nixon is going to ask the new special prosecutor Leon Jaworski to help make Watergate information public.

Quie said Nixon did not say that he would go before the Senate Watergate committee or invite the panel to a White House meeting, but that "he did not close the door on it."

In the meeting with GOP senators Tuesday night, Nixon also promised to make full disclosure on all facts

Stage's Pond Saved

Miriam E. Weaver, general chairman of the Stage's Pond Fund Drive, announced today the goal of $20,000 has been reached.

However, she emphasized they will continue to accept contributions so an adjoining woods may also be purchased.

The portion of Stage's Pond, to be purchased belongs to Mr. and Mrs. David Hedges, Ashville. The $20,000 raised through the efforts of Pickaway County Garden Club will be presented to Nature's Conservancy.

The local money will be matched with federal funds and the land will be turned over to the state of Ohio to be operated as a natural preserve.

The drive to save the pond has attracted statewide attention.

The kettlehold pond is about 30 to 40 acres in size and was formed when a large chunk of ice broke loose from the great glacier and was buried under the rocks and soil. When the glacier melted, a great crater was left.

Stage's Pond is the last vestige of the glacier in central Ohio.

bearing on the Watergate controversy and other scandals that have besieged his administration.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said Nixon did not respond to his request that the President meet with the panel in a private but on-the-record question-and-answer session.

Other senators said Nixon's responses were frank, candid and thoughtful. Baker said: "I've never witnessed a more frank presidential conversation."

Following the session the President and Mrs. Nixon made an unexpected visit to a party for Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

It was the President's second surprise outing in less than a week and at the party he played a chorus of "Happy Birthday" on the piano for the 75-year-old Bennett. Party guests included eight of the senators who had met earlier with Nixon.

At the earlier session senator after senator said they stressed the need for disclosure if the administration is to regain some of the credibility they said has been lost in recent weeks over such issues as missing or non-existent tape recordings of presidential conversations about Watergate.

All Republican senators have been invited to meet with Nixon to offer advice and to ask questions.

Most of those in the Tuesday night session came from the beginning of the Senate alphabet. Most of them said few questions of substance bearing on the facts of Watergate were asked.

Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett of Oklahoma said Nixon appeared to be ready to make full disclosure "concerning all the accusations that have been made against him."

Bartlett and New Mexico Sen. Peter V. Domenici said the President left no

Ohioans Ignoring Speed Cut Pleas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans appear more interested in maintaining top highway speed than in slowing down to save fuel, according to a spokesman for the Ohio Highway Patrol.

"It appears there is some effort on the part of some people to maintain 50 miles per hour," said Maj. Adam Reiss, patrol operations officer. "But generally, there doesn't appear to be much influence."

Reiss says most drivers on interstate routes are traveling 70 m.p.h. The trend on other roads seems to be toward slower speeds, but he says the movement is not yet significant.

Atty. Gen. Bill Brown says reduced speed limits can be enforced if the governor issues an executive order. But Brown says the order would be limited to 60 days and would require eventual legislative approval.

Among vehicles which are being slowed by the energy crisis are the giant machines used to mine oil's chief replacement — coal.

The Wilnot Mining Co. of Stark County says it curtailed operations last month because of a 40 per cent reduction in its fuel supply. Company officials said only one of four draglines was in operation until this month's allocation.

A complicating factor, industry officials say, is new state reclamation laws.

Toni Bedway, president of the Bedway Coal Co. of Jefferson County, said 30 per cent of his fuel is allocated to machinery engaged in reclamation work.

doubt that disclosures will include the facts behind favorable treatment alleged to have been given ITT and the dairy industry in return for large contributions to Nixon's re-election campaign.

They also said the President appears prepared to offer a more complete accounting of the acquisition of his estates at San Clemente, Calif. and Key Biscayne, Fla.

But they and other senators said the President still is searching for a forum in which disclosure can be made without interference with court proceedings before Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Sen. Bill Brock of Tennessee said the President confirmed accounts given by White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., on how it was that two key presidential Watergate conversations never were recorded.

Domenici said Nixon told the senators that one tape of a conversation between Nixon and former White House counsel John W. Dean III "will clearly indicate the President was accurate in saying Dean was mistaken in some of his Watergate testimony."

After the meeting, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told reporters nothing was said to change his opinion that Nixon has been so badly hurt by Watergate that he should resign.

Brooke said he raised the possibility of resignation with the President and that Nixon had told him he would not take that step.

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.R-N.Y., called the meeting, "a good step in the right direction."

"I had the opportunity of telling the President directly that the critical fact with which he must cope is not to satisfy a court under normal rules of evidence but to satisfy a deeply skeptical public," Buckley said.

Meanwhile, in Cleveland members of the mayor's commission on energy conservation say the energy situation is serious, but there is no reason for panic.

The commission met Tuesday with Mayor Ralph Perk and agreed that a unified effort nevertheless is needed by industry, business, labor and government to conserve fuel.

The meeting followed a statement on Monday by Edmund J. Turk, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, that the fuel crisis may result in the biggest economic depression the country has ever experienced.

Turk said some schools may have to close this winter and that a lot of factories will shut down as well.

But some state officials feel an Ohio constitutional ban against extending state credit could shut off teacher salaries if schools are forced to close.

Chief Inspector John Blum of the state auditor's office says the constitution could block payment to teachers and other furloughed school employees for work yet to be performed.

Robert Millisor, chief examiner for schools and libraries, agrees.

"If the schools are closed, you are in effect laying off the employees," Millisor said.

John Hall, Chief lobbyist for the Ohio Education Association, said the teachers' organization is exploring the ramifications with the governor's office and the state education department.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney of Florida said nearly all senators present told the President he must make a full report to the country. Gurney, a member of the Watergate committee, complained that until now the White House response has been too little, too late.

Gurney said Nixon appeared to agree that such a report must be made but said no details were discussed and no commitments made. Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., of Maryland, said it was "a free and open exchange which we have not had before."

Nixon plans to complete his series of meetings with all Republican members of Congress and some Democrats by the end of the week.

Election Totals Official

Pickaway County Board of Elections reports all election totals are official in Pickaway County.

Nancy Ayers, Clerk of the Board of Elections, stated that Pickaway County's totals were official the night of the returns, but totals were not official from Hocking and Fayette Counties until Tuesday.

Requests have been received for recounts on one issue and by two candidates.

The Logan Elm Board of Education has asked for a recount of the 5-mill operating levy in Hocking and Pickaway Counties. The issue lost by 12 votes.

Carl Reichelderfer, candidate for the Logan Elm School Board, asked for a recount in Hocking and Pickaway Counties, also.

Reichelderfer lost to Frank Seimer by one vote.

Vickie Sheets, candidate for council in New Holland, has asked for a recount in Fayette County precincts. She lost the seat by one vote.

Oil Drillers Feel Fuel Shortage

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The lack of diesel oil threatens to force a shutdown of oil well drilling rigs.

"How ridiculous can you get?" groaned Gov. Edwin W. Edwards when he learned that many drilling rigs in Gulf Coast states were pinched by diesel allocations.

Fritz Spencer, Louisiana's energy coordinator, said he approved 16 emergency orders Tuesday totaling 120,000 gallons of diesel fuel for drilling rigs in the state. He said he had 14 applications pending.

"We've got to find it for them," he said. "We have to cover the drilling industry, if nothing else."

In Shreveport, Richard Fugler, division manager of Noble Drilling Corp. of Oklahoma City, said rigs need up to 2,000 gallons of diesel a day when drilling holes four miles deep in search of oil or gas.

"How the hell can we find it if we don't have fuel to operate with?" he said. "We're about to have a fit."

J. M. Flenniken, owner of Petroleum Sales Co. in Bossier City, La., said his company supplies 14 drilling rigs and "we've got just enough fuel to last four or five days."

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market today tried to find footing in Tuesday's late rally but fell back exhausted in negative ground.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had lost more than 100 points in a little over two weeks, was ahead 3 points near the opening. But the blue chip indicator slipped again and was down 13.40 at 877.63 at noon.

Declines overtook advances on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was active, and the ticker tape frequently lagged behind in morning activity.

The broad-based NYSE composite index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .52 at 55.29 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .75 at 101.41.

"The market has exhausted its emotional response," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "It's limp. The market didn't have the strength for a rally, and the sellers have come back in."

Community Services Council Hears About Meals Program

The Circleville Community Services Council held its regular monthly luncheon meeting in St. Philip's Episcopal Parish House Tuesday.

Harold Hewitt presided over the meeting in the absence of the Rev. David Allardyce, president. Mrs. Twyla Lorentz, director of Pickaway Senior Center, introduced Miss Mary Duvall of Zanesville who spoke about the Franciscan Community Meals program. Miss Duvall is co-ordinator of volunteers for the Good Samaritan Medical Center in Zanesville, and is also the consultant on the meals program, which began nearly three years ago and is now being implemented in numerous counties in Ohio, with other inquiries from other states.

Approximately 40 of the 63 people present at the meeting had come in response to an invitation to hear Miss Duvall explain the Franciscan Meals program, which the Senior Center is interested in getting started in Circleville.

Miss Duvall explained that it is a non-profit program, but is self supporting and is not funded by government money in any way. All meals will be delivered to clients by volunteers, working in pairs, - one doing the driving and one doing the delivering. The food itself will be prepared in restaurants, with special diets probably being obtained from nursing homes or the hospital.

The meals will be delivered in specially constructed hot packs and cold packs designed to hold nine

Northwest Again Wet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain, wind and snow persisted over much of the northwestern quarter of the nation today, but unseasonable mildness favored most areas from the Plains to the Atlantic.

A travelers' advisory was posted over the mountains of northeastern California because of locally heavy snow drifting and blowing in gusty winds. Reno, Nev., was blanketed with an inch of snow.

Rain dampened central California, and drizzle and very light snow dotted widely scattered areas from the northern Plains across the Great Lakes and into Maine.

A November heat wave warmed Texas, setting records in western counties. The temperature hit 81 at Amarillo, 82 at Lubbock and 83 at Midland on Tuesday.

Temperatures below dawn ranged from 25 at Bismarck, N.D., to 74 at Miami, Fla.

See Problems On Rationing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The American public might not accept gas rationing today as easily as it did during World War II, say two men who were close to the situation back in the 40s.

"I question whether people would accept rationing now as they did then," said Clifford J. Houser, who was deputy administrator of the wartime Ohio region of the Office of Price Administration.

"After all, there was a war on then. Now with all the fumbling around the government and the oil companies have done they (people) aren't sympathetic."

James V. Cresente, executive director of the Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association Inc., said, "During World War II Americans accepted rationing as being patriotic."

"It was their contribution to the war effort," said Cresente, who ran a gas station during the war. "Now the public is questioning the credibility of major oil companies."

Defective Blankets Replaced At Prison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A two-year quality control program was responsible for replacing 2,000 defective blankets at a state prison and recovering more than $13,000 in cash, the director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services said Tuesday.

Joseph J. Sommer said the state program detected the defective blankets at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility and the firm replaced them.

Sommer said the cash was collected from other suppliers who failed to meet the terms of their contracts.

meals, which would constitute one route. Volunteers would be expected to work in teams, not more often than once per week, possibly less often. Each day's delivery time would be about 1½ hours. Clients pay for the meals they receive but the cost is nominal, with 15 cents per day going for packaging and the balance to the food supplier.

Clients (those receiving the food service) will be referred by doctors, health departments, welfare departments, churches, or just individuals. The program is also designed so that those who get food stamps may use them in payment for their food. People of any age may be served, if the need is indicated. A screening committee will make all decisions as to who will become a client.

The program will require a volunteer co-ordinator and a board consisting of about 13 people, as well as a volunteer bookkeeper (an hour or two per week will be all that is needed) and numerous volunteers for delivery. This latter service is something that men could do nicely, and also those who do not drive, as those persons could accompany one who does drive.

The speaker mentioned the possibility of gasoline rationing, but stated that she had been assured by officials in Washington that if this did come to pass, those who were volunteering their cars would be assured of extra gasoline to take care of their needs.

Miss Duvall also emphasized that this is a Christian program, carried out by Christian people, doing this service with love and understanding.

Mrs. Lorentz stated, after thanking Miss Duvall for coming, that the Committee on Aging, advisory board of Pickaway Senior Center, was considering becoming the initial advisory board for the Meals program. This group will be meeting Wednesday morning to consider some action.

Mr. David Gillespie announced that the Kiwanis Club of Circleville has set aside enough money to sponsor the first route.

The need for a coordinator is paramount at present. Mrs. Lorentz would appreciate receiving the names of anyone who would like to assist getting this worthwhile program going by agreeing to be the Co-ordinator. Miss Duvall emphasized that all persons connected with the program would be given extensive training in Zanesville, and she will be available for free consultation at all times. The telephone number at the Senior Center is 474-4916.

O'Neill Mum On Possible Retirement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chief Justice C. William O'Neill says he will make his decision whether to seek re-election "early enough" to let other potential candidates know his plans.

The chief justice was asked Tuesday about published reports that he plans not to seek re-election and to step down when his term expires Jan. 1, 1975.

O'Neill would have to file petitions by Feb. 6 to seek another term as chief justice.

"I will make it (the decision) early enough to let everyone know in case anyone else wants to run," he said.

The reports speculated that O'Neill — a former speaker of the House, Governor and Supreme Court associate justice — may stay off the Republican ticket next year to help his son, State Rep. C. William "Dub" O'Neill, run for attorney general.

Although there has been speculation that the young O'Neill might seek the attorney general's office, the chief justice declined to discuss it.

"He hasn't announced for anything," he said of his son.

Some reports have circulated that the 57-year-old O'Neill might be considering some other statewide race next year. But O'Neill said he was in no position to discuss the possibility "while sitting on the bench."

U.S., China To Improve Relations

TOKYO (AP) — The United States and China moved closer today to full diplomatic relations while pledging that neither nation would try to dominate the world.

In a joint communique following the four-day visit to Peking by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, the United States acknowledged that "there is but one China and that Taiwan is part of China."

The communique said scientific, cultural and business exchanges between the two countries will be accelerated. Their liaison offices in Washington and Peking will be gradually upgraded.

A senior U.S. official in Kissinger's party said the "principle of one China," which the Chinese stressed in the document, will be explored through diplomatic channels over the next few months.

Seeing to reassure the Chinese that the Nixon administration's policy of detente with the Soviet Union is not directed at Peking, the United States joined China in a declaration opposing "efforts by any other country or group of countries" to establish domination in any area.

The United States and the Soviet Union reached a similar agreement during Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's visit to the United States last spring.

The senior U.S. official described the document as "an attempt to move forward along the road toward normalization."

A spokesman for the family said the body was flown to Louisiana early today aboard one of Lewis' planes for funeral services.

Young Lewis was the second son of the entertainer to die at an early age. Several years ago a young son drowned in a swimming pool.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market today tried to find footing in Tuesday's late rally but fell back exhausted in negative ground.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had lost more than 100 points in a little over two weeks, was ahead 3 points near the opening. But the blue chip indicator slipped again and was down 13.40 at 877.63 at noon.

Declines overtook advances on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was active, and the ticker tape frequently lagged behind in morning activity.

The broad-based NYSE composite index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .52 at 55.29 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .75 at 101.41.

"The market has exhausted its emotional response," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "It's limp. The market didn't have the strength for a rally, and the sellers have come back in."

Defective Blankets

Replaced At Prison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A two-year quality control program was responsible for replacing 2,000 defective blankets at a state prison and recovering more than $13,000 in cash, the director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services said Tuesday.

Joseph J. Sommer said the state program detected the defective blankets at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility and the firm replaced them.

Sommer said the cash was collected from other suppliers who failed to meet the terms of their contracts.

meals, which would constitute one route. Volunteers would be expected to work in teams, not more often than once per week, possibly less often. Each day's delivery time would be about 1½ hours. Clients pay for the meals they receive but the cost is nominal, with 15 cents per day going for packaging and the balance to the food supplier.

Clients (those receiving the food service) will be referred by doctors, health departments, welfare departments, churches, or just individuals. The program is also designed so that those who get food stamps may use them in payment for their food. People of any age may be served, if the need is indicated. A screening committee will make all decisions as to who will become a client.

The program will require a volunteer co-ordinator and a board consisting of about 13 people, as well as a volunteer bookkeeper (an hour or two per week will be all that is needed) and numerous volunteers for delivery. This latter service is something that men could do nicely, and also those who do not drive, as those persons could accompany one who does drive.

The speaker mentioned the possibility of gasoline rationing, but stated that she had been assured by officials in Washington that if this did come to pass, those who were volunteering their cars would be assured of extra gasoline to take care of their needs.

Miss Duvall also emphasized that this is a Christian program, carried out by Christian people, doing this service with love and understanding.

Mrs. Lorentz stated, after thanking Miss Duvall for coming, that the Committee on Aging, advisory board of Pickaway Senior Center, was considering becoming the initial advisory board for the Meals program. This group will be meeting Wednesday morning to consider some action.

Mr. David Gillespie announced that the Kiwanis Club of Circleville has set aside enough money to sponsor the first route.

The need for a coordinator is paramount at present. Mrs. Lorentz would appreciate receiving the names of anyone who would like to assist getting this worthwhile program going by agreeing to be the Co-ordinator. Miss Duvall emphasized that all persons connected with the program would be given extensive training in Zanesville, and she will be available for free consultation at all times. The telephone number at the Senior Center is 474-4916.

Teamsters Walkout Ends In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A strike by 88 Teamster Union drivers against the Refiners Transportation and Terminal Corp. in Columbus ended Tuesday after a one day walkout.

A company spokesman said the men returned to work after the firm agreed to negotiate the rehiring of a man who was fired.

The firm delivers fuel oil to about 6,500 homes and gasoline to about 300 stations.

O'Neill Mum On Possible Retirement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chief Justice C. William O'Neill says he will make his decision whether to seek re-election "early enough" to let other potential candidates know his plans.

The chief justice was asked Tuesday about published reports that he plans not to seek re-election and to step down when his term expires Jan. 1, 1975.

O'Neill would have to file petitions by Feb. 6 to seek another term as chief justice.

"I will make it (the decision) early enough to let everyone know in case anyone else wants to run," he said.

The reports speculated that O'Neill — a former speaker of the House, Governor and Supreme Court associate justice — may stay off the Republican ticket next year to help his son, State Rep. C. William "Dub" O'Neill, run for attorney general.

Although there has been speculation that the young O'Neill might seek the attorney general's office, the chief justice declined to discuss it.

"He hasn't announced for anything," he said of his son.

Some reports have circulated that the 57-year-old O'Neill might be considering some other statewide race next year. But O'Neill said he was in no position to discuss the possibility "while sitting on the bench."

U.S., China To Improve Relations

TOKYO (AP) — The United States and China moved closer today to full diplomatic relations while pledging that neither nation would try to dominate the world.

In a joint communique following the four-day visit to Peking by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, the United States acknowledged that "there is but one China and that Taiwan is part of China."

The communique said scientific, cultural and business exchanges between the two countries will be accelerated. Their liaison offices in Washington and Peking will be gradually upgraded.

A senior U.S. official in Kissinger's party said the "principle of one China," which the Chinese stressed in the document, will be explored through diplomatic channels over the next few months.

Seeking to reassure the Chinese that the Nixon administration's policy of detente with the Soviet Union is not directed at Peking, the United States joined China in a declaration opposing "efforts by any other country or group of countries" to establish domination in any area.

The United States and the Soviet Union reached a similar agreement during Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's visit to the United States last spring.

The senior U.S. official described the document as "an attempt to move forward along the road toward normalization."

Jerry Lee Lewis Son Is Killed

COCKRUK, Miss. (AP) — Jerry Lee Lewis Jr., 19, oldest son of the rock 'n' roll singer, was killed in a traffic accident near this tiny north Mississippi town.

Desoto County sheriff's officers said young Lewis was driving a jeep that was towing a car when the two vehicles slammed into a bridge Tuesday night. They said he died of a broken neck.

A spokesman for the family said the body was flown to Louisiana early today aboard one of Lewis' planes for funeral services.

Young Lewis was the second son of the entertainer to die at an early age. Several years ago a young son drowned in a swimming pool.

A Page Of Opinion

Interest In Old Autos

Perhaps nowhere is the penchant of Americans for the nostalgic more apparent than in museums of antique automobiles. There are literally dozens of these throughout the country now, and they attract millions of spectators. Some are elaborate establishments containing hundreds of ancient cars.

While most are gasoline-powered, there are some steam autos as well as electric. Both were in general use before World War I, though neither ever attained wide popularity. One of the impressive features of automotive museums is the number of makes of automobiles which the average person had never heard of. There were hundreds of different makes in the early days of the auto, and all but a few are represented in a museum somewhere. What proves surprising to many members of the younger set, as they view these specimens of early-day motorized transportation, is that automobiles actually ran 60 or 70 years ago. Many say they had been under the impression that ancient vehicles of World War II vintage barely made it away from the curb.

Kissinger's Fragile Peace

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—People . . . Places . . . The souffles of that famous diplomatic chef Henry Kissinger are inclined to sink, like any bride's. But nobody any longer questions that they are beautiful before they sag. Indeed, it's a bloody shame that they can't be partaken of — by all hands — at the crest of their buoyancy.

His latest, which achieved the miracle recipe of mixing oil and Golda, may not remain inflated very long. But it promises to end the seasonal shooting in that part of the world, restore POWs to home and hearth, open a corridor down which a beleaguered Egyptian army can march with some semblance of face (in history, how many millions have died for "face"?), and pull all the shootin' irons back to where they were.

As military facts go in these times, the Israeli-Egyptian agreement isn't any better or worse than, say, the deals we forced or were party to in Korea and Vietnam. In Vietnam, tens of thousands have been killed and wounded since the Kissinger-Tho peace agreement. Tho has had the good taste to turn down his 50 per cent of the Nobel Peace Prize, and Kissinger has had the wariness to ask the committee if he can accept his share of the prize in absentia. Otherwise, he might have heard himself booed for the first time in his life as he stepped up to receive his half of the sunken solid gold soufflé.

Since there aren't any more bugs and tapes in the White House, a dame named Rumor hath it, we'll never know what President Nixon said to Mrs. Meir about a Mideast peace before he was photographed giving her a snappy salute as she left the Executive Mansion. But what he said to the Israeli Prime Minister on that day, and what U.S. Under-secretary of State Joseph Sisco later said to her in Tel Aviv, must have been distressing to her — and to Israel in general.

Israel has for so long enjoyed U.S. aid and affection that it must come as a shock to learn there might be great grievance aroused among the American people if they were inconvenienced or punished in any way by the oil-soaked Arab nations for taking Israel's side in its continuing struggle for existence. The impending exchange of ambassadors between Cairo and Washington would have been incomprehensible only a few short months ago.

Mrs. Meir must feel a great deal like Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek felt after President Nixon's health-toasting visit to mainland China.

But that's the way it goes. As Mrs. Meir herself once sighed, "If Moses had only turned left instead of right . . . we'd have all that oil."

Enforcing the 50 miles an hour limit on the Jersey Turnpike — and the super-roads of all the other states that will fall in line behind the President's tank-shrinking — will be about as hard as was throttling the booze during Prohibition. Unless the Feds and the states can afford to hire about 30,000,000 speed cops, the new regulations will slow down highway speeds about as much as cigaret smoking has been affected by the grim warning on every pack of cigarettes sold.

Our autobahns were built for speed, speed and more speed — extended versions of the Indianapolis Speedway and all the other banked race tracks in the land. Our car manufacturers, by and large, stress power and speeds up to more than twice as much velocity as the President has suggested. Even the Soap Box Derby was corrupted this year by the greed for speed.

So, how you gonna keep 'em down on the State Farm after they've seen Grand Prix?

Judge John Sirica bleakly canceled the speaking tour that was earning Watergate James McCord some needed cash. But the judge's 18-month prison sentence for E. Howard Hunt — McCord's co-conspirator — will mean income for Mr. Hunt. All he needs is permission to use the prison chaplain's typewriter to add to his list of 44 spy-novels, none of which approach the drama of his own spooky life.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The stunning realization by Washington that the energy shortage isn't a decade or a year or even a day away is a comment in bold relief on a great failing of democratic society — a failure to work toward common goals.

Individual institutions plan and achieve, as witness the billions of dollars the nation has laid out for a vast highway system. But while car makers and highway builders reached their goals, the nation didn't.

As a result, not only is the air polluted and the cities snarled in traffic while public transportation remains on the drawing boards, but an energy shortage now threatens to turn the entire economy into a recession.

The magnitude of bad planning or lack of it is difficult to fully appreciate. Some segments of society can be accused not only of failing to exercise common sense but of actually plotting their own downfall.

Electric utilities and appliance makers, for instance, were promoting to the ultimate the extravagant use of their products as recently as two years ago, seemingly oblivious to what their own researchers told them.

The owner of a new West Coast building was told at the time to leave his lights burning at night because, said the utility, a full illuminated building is great advertising.

Even at the moment, when wise Americans seek smaller cars in order to conserve fuel and money, Detroit finds itself with an inventory of big cars, having ignored the clues fed to them by the public.

A decade ago, when interest in small, efficient cars became obvious, Detroit ignored that evidence too and, as a consequence, lost the small car market to foreign imports.

The U.S. payments balance suffered greatly because of that failure by America's most powerful industry, but relatively few people were concerned about America. Until lately it hasn't had any lobby at all. The shortsightedness of industries, the tunnel vision, the self-centered planning — while it might have taken care of the immediate needs of specific organizations — didn't serve the national purpose.

But the failure isn't that of business alone. As oil industry researchers know, the press didn't respond to their warnings. Elected officials didn't either. And environmentalists sometimes became obstructionists.

And now the impact is going to be felt in the smallest ways and in the largest, in having to wear a sweater around the house and, at the opposite extreme, in having to worry about what happens to a free society.

It will be tough holding the car down to 50 miles per hour, but when you can't buy gasoline or if it costs $1.25 a gallon, that problem will take care of itself. You can endure lower indoor temperatures too, and who needs brightly lit Christmas decorations?

The cities will be even darker at night, but fewer people now visit the downtown areas after dark anyway. And, conceivably, the ball parks will be dark at night, forcing spectators to watch the games by the more primitive sunlight.

Those changes, while they impair to some extent the American way of doing things, are insignificant compared with the inevitable, enormous impact on the economy, an economy that cannot function without energy.

That means these possibilities: production cutbacks in basic industries, such as steel, chemicals, auto making, leisure and, of course, all forms of power. It could mean many layoffs. It could mean recession.

But even more important in the long run is the threat to a basically free society that now must be directed from Washington because its various private groups couldn't agree on what was good for the nation.

Circleville's Mayor-elect Robert E. Hedges moved cautiously into the tangled affairs centered on City Hall by announcing plans to "bring new life" into activities of the city health board. Hedges said the health board should have five members, but that only three members had been listed for a long time.

Circleville Police Chief Elmer Merriman warned the city's lawmakers that pay scales for his department were far below standard, and that the situation was bound to lead to an emergency unless corrective steps were taken.

Highly coordinated groups—in Circleville and Pickaway County outside the city—were checking final details for a fund drive in behalf of Berger Hospital.

The campaign moved into an all-out stretch to raise funds for furnishing the new wing being built at the city-county institution.

Preparations to crack down on those responsible for littered streets and sidewalks were announced following through on warnings issued several times by City Service Director Dewey Speakman.

Mrs. Chester A. Smith of Columbus, 1st vice-president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs was the guest speaker at the November meeting of the Circleville Junior Woman's Club. Invited guests for the session, held in the home of Mrs. George Macklin, were members of the Saltcreek Town and Country Club and the Kingston Civic Club.

San Francisco's first cable car had its trial run on Aug. 1, 1873.

The EKG may demonstrate the underlying changes in the heart that may be responsible for a heart murmur, but the murmur itself is not recorded on the electrocardiogram.

The sounds heard by the doctor through the stethoscope are evaluated by their loudness, their location over the chest wall, their relationship to the contraction of the heart, and changes that occur during exercise and a rest.

The normal sounds are differentiated from the specialized sounds made by heart murmurs.

So you see that while the heart murmur can be picked up through the stethoscope, it will not show on the electrocardiogram.

There are many kinds of heart murmurs. Some are indicative of anatomical changes and heart disease.

Others are innocuous murmurs that do not affect the functioning capacity of the heart in any way.

It is truly remarkable how much information about the heart is obtained when the trained ear of the doctor interprets the character of the heart murmur that he hears.

I have a tendency to develop swollen glands in the neck. I worry about this when they become enlarged.

Miss D.K., Mo.

Dear Miss K.:

There are no special "tendencies" to account for swollen glands in the neck indicate nature's mechanism for defending itself against infection by germs and viruses.

The glands, or "nodes," act as filtering systems to hold back bacteria and to keep them from invading the bloodstream and spreading throughout the body.

Occasionally, with a severe infection of the fingertip, red streaks may appear between the wrist and the elbow, and a protective swollen gland will appear in the armpit.

The mechanism is the same here as it is for keeping infection from spreading in the neck.

It is not commonly known by the layman that there is a lymphatic system of tiny vessels that run parallel to the arteries in the veins. These vessels contain lymph fluid which acts protectively when the body is threatened with certain infections.

1976 Campaign Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 presidential campaign has already started, three years before the next election and one year after politicians vowed to prevent a repetition of the seemingly endless 1972 campaign.

If anything, the preliminary maneuvering is ahead of the 1972 pace with both parties involved in the initial soundings.

The basic reason for the advance planning is a belief that it takes several years to put together the kind of organization needed to capture the presidency, and a fear that any candidate who delays may find someone else has gotten there first.

The early start indicates that the long 1972 campaign of Sen. George McGovern, in which he declared formal candidacy a full year ahead of the usual starting time, may become the rule next time around.

Among the Republicans, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Democrat John Connally of Texas and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois have started moving around the country, making speeches and extending their GOP contacts.

They will likely be active next year in the 1974 congressional and gubernatorial campaign, along with Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who has decided against seeking a third term. Already the favorite of GOP conservatives, he plans to launch an ambitious national speaking tour in 1975.

Percy is the farthest advanced towards a candidacy. He has announced formation of an Exploratory Committee to guide his decision and has started research on a possible race.

Other GOP possibilities such as Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson have received valuable television exposure but have yet to make any overt moves toward candidacy.

Among Democrats, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is the most active. Some say he never stopped campaigning after his unsuccessful 1972 bid.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota says he is interested, has been traveling around a lot and is expected to launch some kind of campaign committee next year.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas has raised a $300,000 kitty to finance his work as chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee while saying he will decide at the end of 1974 whether a presidential bid is feasible.

Yule Tree May Be Dark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although nobody seems to want to go out on a limb about it, Congress may wind up with fewer lights on its Christmas tree next month because of the energy crisis.

The U.S. Forest Service, announcing Monday that a 51-foot white spruce from Pennsylvania will be Capitol Hill's official Christmas tree next month, said it is not sure what will happen.

The plan now seems to be to light the tree in a ceremony Dec. 13 and then turn the lights on each night for five hours or so. Last year the lights were on for about seven hours.

The Forest Service says one plan calls for only 2,500 lights to be used this year, instead of the 4,500 used to decorate the 1972 tree.

Officials said that even with the curtailed decoration the electricity used by the tree would be enough to power 250 household lights bulbs of 100 watts each.

The Capitol tree is not the "national Christmas tree" featured annually at lighting ceremonies near the White House.

A Page Of Opinion

Interest In Old Autos

Perhaps nowhere is the penchant of Americans for the nostalgic more apparent than in museums of antique automobiles. There are literally dozens of these throughout the country now, and they attract millions of spectators. Some are elaborate establishments containing hundreds of ancient cars.

While most are gasoline-powered, there are some steam autos as well as electric. Both were in general use before World War I, though neither ever attained wide popularity.

One of the impressive features of automotive museums is the number of makes of automobiles which the average person had never heard of. There were hundreds of different makes in the early days of the auto, and all but a few are represented in a museum somewhere.

What proves surprising to many members of the younger set, as they view these specimens of early-day motorized transportation, is that automobiles actually ran 60 or 70 years ago. Many say they had been under the impression that ancient vehicles of World War II vintage barely made it away from the curb.

Kissinger's Fragile Peace

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—People . . . Places . . .

The souffles of that famous diplomatic chef Henry Kissinger are inclined to sink, like any bride's. But nobody any longer questions that they are beautiful before they sag. Indeed, it's a bloody shame that they can't be partaken of — by all hands — at the crest of their buoyancy.

His latest, which achieved the miracle recipe of mixing oil and Golda, may not remain inflated very long. But it promises to end the seasonal shooting in that part of the world, restore POWs to home and hearth, open a corridor down which a beleaguered Egyptian army can march with some semblance of face (in history, how many millions have died for "face"?), and pull all the shootin' irons back to where they were.

As military facts go in these times, the Israeli-Egyptian agreement isn't any better or worse than, say, the deals we forced or were party to in Korea and Vietnam. In Vietnam, tens of thousands have been killed and wounded since the Kissinger-Tho peace agreement. Tho has had the good taste to turn down his 50 per cent of the Nobel Peace Prize, and Kissinger has had the wariness to ask the committee if he can accept his share of the prize in absentia. Otherwise, he might have heard himself booed for the first time in his life as he stepped up to receive his half of the sunken solid gold souffle.

Since there aren't any more bugs and tapes in the White House, a dame named Rumor hath it, we'll never know what President Nixon said to Mrs. Meir about a Mideast peace before he was photographed giving her a snappy salute as she left the Executive Mansion. But what he said to the Israeli Prime Minister on that day, and what U.S. Under-secretary of State Joseph Sisco later said to her in Tel Aviv, must have been distressing to her — and to Israel in general.

Israel has for so long enjoyed U.S. aid and affection that it must come as a shock to learn there might be great grievance aroused among the American people if they were inconvenienced or punished in any way by the oil-soaked Arab nations for taking Israel's side in its continuing struggle for existence. The impending exchange of ambassadors between Cairo and Washington would have been incomprehensible only a few short months ago.

Mrs. Meir must feel a great deal like Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek felt after President Nixon's health-toasting visit to mainland China.

But that's the way it goes. As Mrs. Meir herself once sighed, "If Moses had only turned left instead of right . . . we'd have all that oil."

Enforcing the 50 miles an hour limit on the Jersey Turnpike — and the super-roads of all the other states that will fall in line behind the President's tank-shrinking — will be about as hard as was throttling the booze during Prohibition. Unless the Feds and the states can afford to hire about 30,000,000 speed cops, the new regulations will slow down highway speeds about as much as cigaret smoking has been affected by the grim warning on every pack of cigarettes sold.

Our autobahns were built for speed, speed and more speed — extended versions of the Indianapolis Speedway and all the other banked race tracks in the land. Our car manufacturers, by and large, stress power and speeds up to more than twice as much velocity as the President has suggested. Even the Soap Box Derby was corrupted this year by the greed for speed.

So, how you gonna keep 'em down on the State Farm after they've seen Grand Prix?

Judge John Sirica bleakly canceled the speaking tour that was earning Watergate James McCord some needed cash. But the judge's 18-month prison sentence for E. Howard Hunt — McCord's co-conspirator — will mean income for Mr. Hunt. All he needs is permission to use the prison chaplain's typewriter to add to his list of 44 spy-novels, none of which approach the drama of his own spooky life.

Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — The stunning realization by Washington that the energy shortage isn't a decade or a year or even a day away is a comment in bold relief on a great failing of democratic society — a failure to work toward common goals.

Individual institutions plan and achieve, as witness the billions of dollars the nation has laid out for a vast highway system. But while car makers and highway builders reached their goals, the nation didn't.

As a result, not only is the air polluted and the cities snarled in traffic while public transportation remains on the drawing boards, but an energy shortage now threatens to turn the entire economy into a recession.

The magnitude of bad planning or lack of it is difficult to fully appreciate. Some segments of society can be accused not only of failing to exercise common sense but of actually plotting their own downfall.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wants wife filled out

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for five years. I've always told her that I prefer well-filled out girls to skinny ones. My wife is really overweight, but knowing that I like a well-padded body has given her an excuse to get sloppy fat.

She is 5 feet 2, weighs about 170 pounds, and is still gaining. I've hinted that she should start reducing, but to no avail. How can I get it across to her that I would like her to lose about 40 pounds?

AIR FORCE HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Quit hinting, and tell her that by "well-filled out" you do not mean, "bursting at the seams." Tell her, too, that carrying around all that excess weight is unhealthy, and you'd be heart-broken were she to drop dead of high blood pressure or heart trouble, because then you'd be forced to replace her with a younger, slimmer, healthier woman. (THAT should do it!)

DEAR ABBY: I would like to get the opinion of some hairdressers. My mother passed away, and a few hours later I got a phone call from a hairdresser saying she had heard the sad news, and wanted to come to the funeral home to fix my mother's hair. She said she thought so much of Mom she felt that this was the last favor she could do for her. I thanked her, and told her I appreciated her generosity. (No mention was made of money.)

After the funeral, this hairdresser called the funeral home and demanded $15. Of course I saw to it that she got her money, but I really think it is a shame that a person would call and offer her services as a "friend", and then ask for money.

She later said it was against the law to do that kind of work for free. Is it? JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: If it is, it's news to me.

HAIRDRESSERS? DEAR ABBY: My husband says he thinks I don't like being married. I asked him why, and he said: "Because of the comment you make to single people, like, 'You're not missing anything,' or, 'You don't know when you're well off.'"

I know this sounds like a reflection on my marriage, but I'm not speaking of mine. I'm referring to the majority of marriages I read about in your column, and also to the statistics.

As a single person, I had no debts and was able to save a large sum of money. Since I've been married, I haven't saved a dollar and we always are in debt.

'How can I convince my husband that I am satisfied with my marriage? I explained to him that I was not referring to our marriage, but only to marriages in general.

DEAR BIG MOUTH: You will have a tough time convincing him-and also me!

CONFIDENTIAL TO E.S.H.: Thank you for making me an honorary senior citizen of the city of San Diego, Cal. It's a first for me. I hadn't considered myself ready for it, but if you take 'em at age 50, I qualified five years ago!

Slaying Trial Opens In Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The trial of 18-year-old Isaac Beasley, who is charged with first-degree murder in the shooting death of a Cincinnati detective during a 1971 holdup attempt, opened Tuesday with the jury viewing the shooting scene.

Beasley is charged in the death of Detective Howard Smith, 56, who died of shotgun wounds last year, nine months after the incident.

Last January, Raymond Sams, 19, was sentenced to life imprisonment on charges stemming from the shooting.

U.S. Grant Awarded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $57,825 federal grant has been awarded Stark County to expand senior citizen programs in the area. The money was provided under the Older Americans Act.

Senior Center Staff Members Attend Ohio Assn. Conference

Pickaway Senior Center staff members, Vera Saunders and Twyla Lorentz, attended the 1973 Conference of the Ohio Assn. of Centers for Senior Citizens, Thursday and Friday at Salt Fork Lodge, Cambridge.

The conference theme was "The Heart Of The Survival Of The Center". Mrs. Lorentz was the first speaker at the first workshop on "The Life Blood Of The Center," protecting center monies. She represented a center in a small community, with other speakers representing centers in larger communities, with the last one telling of the Dayton Center which has an annual budget of nearly one half million dollars.

The speaker at the Thursday evening banquet was David C. Crowley of Cincinnati, the man whom Governor Gilligan appointed to be director of the newly-created Ohio Commission on Aging. Mr. Crowley's appointment was set up one day so that his first appearance as a speaker in his new position, would be with the OASCS.

Mr. Crowley has been engaged in work among senior citizens in the Cincinnati area for some time and has high hopes of promoting the programs which will be of most benefit to our older population.

Other workshops were on such subjects as education for senior advocacy, program ideas, services, travel and publicity.

During the business meeting Friday morning, Mrs. Lorentz was elected quadrant leader for the Southeast district of the State, which includes all of Columbus, Lancaster, Athens, Marietta, and all other centers and clubs for seniors in the area.

There were 177 people registered, representing 60 centers or clubs. Mrs. Roberta Graham of Warren, Ohio, was elected to a second term as president. Past presidents are: Muriel Bertsch, Hamilton, Ohio, Margaret Lloyd, Dayton, and Catherine Gillie of Columbus, all of whom were present.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

About 530,000 Ohio veterans will receive cash bonuses of up to $500 due to overwhelming voter approval of Issue 4. Veterans may be able to apply for such bonuses by May if quick action is taken in January by the General Assembly to pass the necessary legislation.

To be eligible, a veteran must have been a resident of Ohio for at least one year before entering military service. The veteran must have served in Southeast Asia between February 28, 1961 and July 1, 1973 or in U.S. or foreign service between August 5, 1964 and July 1, 1973. If the veteran has received compensation from another state, received a less than honorable discharge, or was on active duty for training, he is not eligible for the bonus.

The amount of bonus would vary upon time and place of service.

State Issue 2, which removes the constitutional maximum of $3,000 for state income tax exemptions was also approved. Legislation is now being prepared for introduction in January to implement the voters' decision on this issue.

Voters, by strong margins, approved Issues 1 and 3. Issue 1 allows agricultural land to be taxed at its current use value rather than its speculative market value. Issue 3 provides more efficient judicial administration by bringing municipal courts under the 1968 Moder Courts Amendment, and by allowing the General Assembly to merge municipal courts in some areas with common pleas courts.

A conference committee, composed of members of the Ohio House of Representatives and Senate, continued discussion this week on two different campaign financing bills. The committee is trying to work up one bill that will be acceptable to both the House and Senate. Members of the General Assembly remain on call so that prompt floor action can be taken if an acceptable bill is ready.

Following President Nixon's address to the nation on the energy crisis, Governor Gilligan ordered all state agencies to initiate steps designed to save as much fuel as possible this winter.

Governor Gilligan said his cabinet energy committee would report within 10 days on recommendations in such areas as mandatory fuel allocation, reduction of speed limits on the highways and other long-range problems.

In addition, each state agency will be required to submit a plan for conserving energy with the goal being reduction of fuel usage by the state of at least 10 per cent.

Present steps ordered by the Governor include:

- Reduction of lighting in state buildings at night to the lowest possible level commensurate with safety and security requirements.
- Elimination of all unnecessary daytime lighting of state buildings. Experts estimate most large buildings are over-lighted by 15 per cent during daylight hours.
- Reduction of temperatures in state buildings to 68 degrees during working hours, 65 degrees at night and 60 degrees on weekends.
- Creation of incentives for employee car pools. This could include assignment of available parking spaces only to those employees who travel to work in car pools, or requiring state employees who drive state vehicles home to bring at least two other state employees to work with them each day.
- Setting a 60-mile-per-hour speed limit for all state vehicles and encouraging all state employees, and in fact all Ohioans, to drive their personal cars at reduced speeds.
- Purchasing of compact cars for virtually all state agencies, with exceptions being made only in such cases as emergency vehicles.
- Elimination of air conditioning in new purchases of most state vehicles.
- Discouraging the use of building air conditioners between October and April.
- Directing custodial workers to clean state buildings one floor at a time, then turning off the lights and moving on to another floor. In this way, only one floor will be lighted at a time.
- Planning a series of park-and-ride lots which would let state employees drive to a central parking location and then ride special buses to their offices in the downtown area.
- Closing off all unused rooms in state facilities and making sure state buildings are adequately weather stripped and caulked to prevent heat loss.

Injuries Prove Fatal

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Patricia Lindsey, 18, of Okeana, who was critically injured when the car she was driving collided with a truck last week, died Tuesday.

County Health Board Discusses Odor Problem

Receiving top billing at the October meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Health was the odor situation in the south end of town. Mrs. William Hildenbrand, president of the board, introduced Henry Schroeder of Container Corporation of America who met with the board to discuss the problem.

Schroeder stated that every effort is being made to cooperate in attempts to improve all pollution problems. CCA has spent tremendous sums of money to improve the discharge into the Scioto River and the most significant improvement was made a few weeks ago. He said the public can expect less odor in the future.

Carlene Francis, health nurse, reported to the board that she had assisted with chest clinic, prenatal clinic and well child clinic at Berger Hospital. Eight new county children were admitted to the well child clinic for service and the 12 already established were seen. A total of 48 immunizations were given.

Plans were completed for vision testing by the mothers in Darby and Jackson schools. Several home visits to students were made upon requests of principals. Six home visits were made to patients referred from hospitals or other health departments.

Immunization clinics are held at the Pickaway County Health Department office the second and fourth Friday of every month between 2 and 4 p.m. A total of 34 immunizations were administered this month.

The board approved a proposal to initiate a clinic in the county schools to evaluate children with speech and hearing problems.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

About 530,000 Ohio veterans will receive cash bonuses of up to $500 due to overwhelming voter approval of Issue 4. Veterans may be able to apply for such bonuses by May if quick action is taken in January by the General Assembly to pass the necessary legislation.

To be eligible, a veteran must have been a resident of Ohio for at least one year before entering military service. The veteran must have served in Southeast Asia between February 28, 1961 and July 1, 1973 or in U.S. or foreign service between August 5, 1964 and July 1, 1973. If the veteran has received compensation from another state, received a less than honorable discharge, or was on active duty for training, he is not eligible for the bonus.

The amount of bonus would vary upon time and place of service.

State Issue 2, which removes the constitutional maximum of $3,000 for state income tax exemptions was also approved. Legislation is now being prepared for introduction in January to implement the voters' decision on this issue.

Voters, by strong margins, approved Issues 1 and 3. Issue 1 allows agricultural land to be taxed at its current use value rather than its speculative market value. Issue 3 provides more efficient judicial administration by bringing municipal courts under the 1968 Moder Courts Amendment, and by allowing the General Assembly to merge municipal courts in some areas with common pleas courts.

A conference committee, composed of members of the Ohio House of Representatives and Senate, continued discussion this week on two different campaign financing bills. The committee is trying to work up one bill that will be acceptable to both the House and Senate. Members of the General Assembly remain on call so that prompt floor action can be taken if an acceptable bill is ready.

Following President Nixon's address to the nation on the energy crisis, Governor Gilligan ordered all state agencies to initiate steps designed to save as much fuel as possible this winter.

Governor Gilligan said his cabinet energy committee would report within 10 days on recommendations in such areas as mandatory fuel allocation, reduction of speed limits on the highways and other long-range problems. In addition, each state agency will be required to submit a plan for conserving energy with the goal being reduction of fuel usage by the state of at least 10 per cent.

Present steps ordered by the Governor include:

- Reduction of lighting in state buildings at night to the lowest possible level commensurate with safety and security requirements.

- Elimination of all unnecessary daytime lighting of state buildings. Experts estimate most large buildings are over-lighted by 15 per cent during daylight hours.

- Reduction of temperatures in state buildings to 68 degrees during working hours, 65 degrees at night and 60 degrees on weekends.

- Creation of incentives for employee car pools. This could include assignment of available parking spaces only to those employees who travel to work in car pools, or requiring state employees who drive state vehicles home to bring at least two other state employees to work with them each day.

- Setting a 60-mile-per-hour speed limit for all state vehicles and encouraging all state employees, and in fact all Ohioans, to drive their personal cars at reduced speeds.

- Purchasing of compact cars for virtually all state agencies, with exceptions being made only in such cases as emergency vehicles.

- Elimination of air conditioning in new purchases of most state vehicles.

- Discouraging the use of building air conditioners between October and April.

- Directing custodial workers to clean state buildings one floor at a time, then turning off the lights and moving on to another floor. In this way, only one floor will be lighted at a time.

- Planning a series of park-and-ride lots which would let state employees drive to a central parking location and then ride special buses to their offices in the downtown area.

- Closing off all unused rooms in state facilities and making sure state buildings are adequately weather stripped and caulked to prevent heat loss.

Julie For The Defense

By JIM BISHOP

One must admire the pretty fighting face of Mrs. David Eisenhower. Alone, she stands in the smoking ruins of her father's White House, defending him, exalting his patriotism and avoiding embarrassing questions by saying: "My father will explain that in his memoirs."

The blonde, brittle Tricia does not stand between her father and the hounds of the press. Mrs. Nixon—she of the concrete smile—pops into public view only to show the White House rose gardens to children, or political women's clubs. It is as though, in what General Haig described as a political "fire storm," the family is hidden under Lincoln's bed.

Only Julie faces the tigers of the typewriter. Wearing a brave face, she says of her dad: "He's the one who calls us saying, 'Now don't read the papers tomorrow because it's going to be bad. This whole week is going to be bad, and I don't want you to worry about it. I know what I'm doing and I'm doing the right thing.'"

It is possible that her filial devotion is so deep that she believes the things she says. It isn't probable. Julie is sensible and articulate. Her shoulders must be weighted with the knowledge that her children and their children for generations to come must study 1973 as "The Year That Went Down in History."

If Nixon writes his memoirs, will he bare his soul for a million dollars, or will his version of 1972-1973 be listed as "fiction"? How can a man explain that, as President of the United States, he could countenance felonious crimes and not be accountable to anyone? To reduce the matter to its simplest, how is it that he has always confused stubbornness with courage?

At best he is a tragic figure; at worst, a greedy schemer and liar. In 1968, we believed his "peace with honor" pledge, but he didn't achieve an uneasy peace until he was up for re-election. His promises to spare the poor and the helpless from inflation were not redeemed. His detentes with China and Russia amounted to advantages to those nations which they could not refuse.

According to the polls, he has lost the confidence of the nation. Worse, he has lost the team of White House executives handpicked by the President — John Mitchell, Maurice Stans, Richard Kleindienst, Elliot Richardson, Bob Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Egil Krogh, Herbert Kalmbach, William Ruckelshaus — a summer shower of names.

Julie closes her eyes and stuffs her fingers in her ears as the dolorous facts and allegations paint her father as an impeachable scoundrel. And yet, when she squares her shoulders and faces the reporters, the young lady seems to be so sincerely convinced of her dad's innocence that I, for one, ask myself: "Is it possible that she is right and the whole United States is wrong?"

The President stands in dignity strangling in tapes, reversing his position every time public opinion

opposes him. Julie feels that his original "No-tapes-for-anybody," altered to "a-summary-of-tapes-through-Senator-Stennis" to "Sirican-have-all-of-them-except-we-haven't-got-all-of-them" this way:

"He was standing with a constitutional principle, and he wanted to preserve this for future Presidents, but he thought he had reached the point where there was no public understanding for his position." O.K. I don't believe that this was the true reason; over the period of a year I have become convinced that Mr. Nixon was not only aware of Watergate, but also devised and endorsed it with his loyal assistants.

I am in the oozy field of conjecture, and I may be wrong and young Mrs. Eisenhower might be right. If I had a wish, it would be that she prevails, not I. My suspicions paint the White House and the Capitol as selfish, as self-enriching, as bribe-ridden as I have ever believed since Warren Harding was told that Cabinet member Albert Fall was selling U.S. Navy oil leases to private oil companies.

The process is self-perpetuating. All the thunder of Watergate will do is to make future Presidents, Senators and Representatives a little more careful. I am a jade who does not feel that the revelations will stop thievery and skulduggery; fear will cut it down.

I am left with admiration for Julie Eisenhower. In a practical sense, she is the First Lady of the Land . . .

Canadian Oil To Keep Flowing

TORONTO (AP) — Surplus Canadian oil will still be exported and Canada will not stop oil shipments to the United States to appease Arab states, foreign secretary Mitchell Sharp said Monday.

In an interview following a Canadian Club luncheon, Sharp said he told George Ball, former U.S. undersecretary of state, that Canada would not appease the Arabs by cutting off southbound shipments.

In a speech at the luncheon, Ball said that if Canada halted oil exports to his country, the United States might cut off Canadian supplies flowing through its territory — for example, at the Portland, Maine, terminal of the pipeline that supplies crude oil to Montreal.

Ball said official statements indicated Canada might be bowing to Arab threats in order to appear neutral and ensure its own continued supply of oil from the Middle East.

Pepi II, a pharaoh of the Sixth Dynasty, began his reign at the age of 6 and ruled for 91 years.

"LET'S HEAR IT FOR OHIO"—During Tuesday's luncheon of the Sertoma Club, Charles T. Carle Jr. presented a dynamic film entitled "Let's Hear It For Ohio, 1803-1973, 170 Years of Progress." Carle is public information officer for the Ohio Department of Transportation. The film is winner of the Chris Bronze Award, Education Division 1973 Columbus Film Festival. The Rev. Carl Butterbaugh, Marion, was a most welcomed guest of the luncheon.

State School Board Seeks Fuel Priority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Board of Education has urged state and federal officials to give schools top priority in any fuel rationing or allocation.

And the board, meeting here Monday, called on Dr. Martin W. Essex, Ohio's superintendent of education, to cooperate with government agencies "in the formulation of policy regarding energy usage by schools."

The board said for its part, it will use "any authority which it has in securing full cooperation of all the schools of Ohio to share in meeting the demands of any crisis in concert with action involving all other sectors of the economy."

The board spent much of the meeting on energy problems, but on other matters:

—Honored Ebraska D. Watts, a teacher at Chamber Elementary School in East Cleveland, as Ohio's Teacher of the Year for 1974.

—Agreed to fund 545 new special education classes, bringing to 7,389 the number of such classes available to young people in Ohio.

—Accepted two work-study grants, one of $7,088 for schools in Lancaster, the other of $9,450 for schools in Akron.

The federal money will help provide in-school employment for disadvantaged young people.

—Okayed the transfer of 18 acres of land from the Greenhills-Forest Park City School District in Hamilton County to the Wyoming City School District.

The board, dealing with the energy crisis, adopted guidelines for Ohio's public schools to follow in conserving energy.

The board said the guidelines, drafted by the Ohio Department of Education, are designed to offer "practical suggestions on reducing energy consumption through more efficient use of heating, lighting and pupil transportation."

Julie For The Defense

By JIM BISHOP

One must admire the pretty fighting face of Mrs. David Eisenhower. Alone, she stands in the smoking ruins of her father's White House, defending him, exalting his patriotism and avoiding embarrassing questions by saying: "My father will explain that in his memoirs."

The blonde, brittle Tricia does not stand between her father and the hounds of the press. Mrs. Nixon—she of the concrete smile—pops into public view only to show the White House rose gardens to children, or political women's clubs. It is as though, in what General Haig described as a political "fire storm," the family is hidden under Lincoln's bed.

Only Julie faces the tigers of the typewriter. Wearing a brave face, she says of her dad: "He's the one who calls us saying, 'Now don't read the papers tomorrow because it's going to be bad. This whole week is going to be bad, and I don't want you to worry about it. I know what I'm doing and I'm doing the right thing...'"

It is possible that her filial devotion is so deep that she believes the things she says. It isn't probable. Julie is sensible and articulate. Her shoulders must be weighted with the knowledge that her children and their children for generations to come must study 1973 as "The Year That Went Down in History."

If Nixon writes his memoirs, will he bare his soul for a million dollars, or will his version of 1972-1973 be listed as "fiction"? How can a man explain that, as President of the United States, he could countenance felonious crimes and not be accountable to anyone? To reduce the matter to its simplest, how is it that he has always confused stubbornness with courage?

At best he is a tragic figure; at worst, a greedy schemer and liar. In 1968, we believed his "peace with honor" pledge, but he didn't achieve an uneasy peace until he was up for reelection. His promises to spare the poor and the helpless from inflation were not redeemed. His detentes with China and Russia amounted to advantages to those nations which they could not refuse.

According to the polls, he has lost the confidence of the nation. Worse, he has lost the team of White House executives handpicked by the President — John Mitchell, Maurice Stans, Richard Kleindienst, Elliot Richardson, Bob Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Egil Krogh, Herbert Kalmbach, William Ruckelshaus — a summer shower of names.

Julie closes her eyes and stuffs her fingers in her ears as the dolorous facts and allegations paint her father as an impeachable scoundrel. And yet, when she squares her shoulders and faces the reporters, the young lady seems to be so sincerely convinced of her dad's innocence that I, for one, ask myself: "Is it possible that she is right and the whole United States is wrong?"

The President stands in dignity strangling in tapes, reversing his position every time public opinion

opposes him. Julie feels that his original "No-tapes-for-anybody," altered to "a-summary-of-tapes-through-Senator-Stennis" to "Sirican-have-all-of-them-except-we-haven't-got-all-of-them" this way:

"He was standing with a constitutional principle, and he wanted to preserve this for future Presidents, but he thought he had reached the point where there was no public understanding for his position." O.K. I don't believe that this was the true reason; over the period of a year I have become convinced that Mr. Nixon was not only aware of Watergate, but also devised and endorsed it with his loyal assistants.

I am in the oozy field of conjecture, and I may be wrong and young Mrs. Eisenhower might be right. If I had a wish, it would be that she prevails, not I. My suspicions paint the White House and the Capitol as selfish, as self-enriching, as bribe-ridden as I have ever believed since Warren Harding was told that Cabinet member Albert Fall was selling U.S. Navy oil leases to private oil companies.

The process is self-perpetuating. All the thunder of Watergate will do is to make future Presidents, Senators and Representatives a little more careful. I am a jade who does not feel that the revelations will stop thievery and skulduggery; fear will cut it down.

I am left with admiration for Julie Eisenhower. In a practical sense, she is the First Lady of the Land...

Canadian Oil To Keep Flowing

TORONTO (AP) — Surplus Canadian oil will still be exported and Canada will not stop oil shipments to the United States to appease Arab states, foreign secretary Mitchell Sharp said Monday.

In an interview following a Canadian Club luncheon, Sharp said he told George Ball, former U.S. undersecretary of state, that Canada would not appease the Arabs by cutting off southbound shipments.

In a speech at the luncheon, Ball said that if Canada halted oil exports to his country, the United States might cut off Canadian supplies flowing through its territory — for example, at the Portland, Maine, terminal of the pipeline that supplies crude oil to Montreal.

Ball said official statements indicated Canada might be bowing to Arab threats in order to appear neutral and ensure its own continued supply of oil from the Middle East.

Pepi II, a pharaoh of the Sixth Dynasty, began his reign at the age of 6 and ruled for 91 years.

"LET'S HEAR IT FOR OHIO"—During Tuesday's luncheon of the Sertoma Club, Charles T. Carle Jr. presented a dynamic film entitled "Let's Hear It For Ohio, 1803-1973, 170 Years of Progress." Carle is public information officer for the Ohio Department of Transportation. The film is winner of the Chris Bronze Award, Education Division 1973 Columbus Film Festival. The Rev. Carl Butterbaugh, Marion, was a most welcomed guest of the luncheon.

Cincinnati Reading Squad High For Game With Ironton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Reading's players carry extra incentive into their Ohio Class AA high school football playoff game against Ironton Friday night.

The Blue Devils will be playing without their coach, Jerry Daugherty, who is critically ill in a Cincinnati hospital.

Daugherty, 31, a graduate of Northwestern, has been in and out of the hospital frequently in the last two years. He coached Reading to its first eight victories this fall before going back in again.

Daugherty, in his fifth season with the Cincinnati school, hopes to see the championship game if the Blue Devils make it past Ironton at Lancaster.

Larry Holstein and Phil Belmont are handling the squad in Daugherty's absence.

Around Ohio: Cincinnati Moeller led that area in points scored (343) and fewest points allowed (33).

Williamsburg has a 28-0-1 record in the last three seasons under Coach Ken Osborne. Williamsburg compiled a 9-0 mark this fall and won its third Clermont County crown in a row.

Youngstown Mooney halfback Ted Bell has a three-year total of 4,108 rushing yards going into a Class AAA semifinal game against Moeller. Bell has scored 27 touchdowns this season.

Dave Foreman of Ridgewood scored eight touchdowns and eight extra points in a 56-6 romp over Indian Valley South. Tuscarawas Valley posted its 100th victory, beating Tuscarawas Catholic 18-0.

George Murphy, Millersport's 14-year coach, scored his 100th career victory with a 27-0 decision over Amanda-Clearcreek. Ron Stewart established a Lancaster junior rushing record with 1,155 yards after a 208-yard performance last week.

Rich Householder, an Eastern

District Class A sprint champion, sped for four touchdowns in a 41-0 romp over Leetonia.

Canton McKinley outgained Massillon 395-72 in a 21-0 conquest. Massillon, however, leads Ohio's most famous series 42-31-5.

The famed All-American Conference finished in a three-way tie among Massillon, McKinley and Warren Harding. All had 4-1 league records.

Richard Presutti, 6-foot-2, 225-pound two-way tackle at Wellsville, had 115 tackles this season. He also whips the books for a 3.7 scholastic average.

Mount Vernon finished with six straight wins to salvage a 7-3 season. Church Stanley, an end for the Yellow Jackets, caught only nine passes, but seven went for touchdowns this fall.

Local Teams Listed In Computer Ratings

The final standings in the Ohio High School computerized football ratings have been released.

In Class AA Region 8, Teays Valley was eighth, Circleville finished in the 26th spot and Logan Elm was 54th.

Westfall was 27th in Class A Region 12 and Zane trace placed 39th. Amanda-Clearcreek was 44th in Class A Region 11.

Wittenberg Remains 6th In Grid Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wittenberg, despite a 9-0 record, hasn't been able to crack the Top Five in the Associated Press College Division football poll, apparently because of the keen competition.

The Tigers, who gained two first-place votes and a total of 386 points from a nationwide poll of sportswriters and broadcasters, continued in sixth place, 148 points behind fifth-ranked Louisiana Tech in Tuesday's voting.

There were no changes in the poll's Top Five, led by Tennessee State with an 8-0-0 record, 26 first-place votes and 777 total points. Following Tennessee State were Hawaii, 8-0-0 with four votes for the top spot and 679 points; Western Kentucky, 9-0-0 with three first-place votes and 661 points; Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo at 8-0-0, four votes for No. 1 and 595 points, and Louisiana Tech, 9-10 and 534 points.

Tennessee State held the top spot, beating Central State of Ohio 45-7 last Saturday. Hawaii trounced Santa Clara 40-9, while Western Kentucky drubbed Butler 48-6, Cal Poly SLO crushed Cal Lutheran 63-14, Louisiana Tech topped Lamar 17-3, and Wittenberg bombed Capital 35-7.

There were changes from the seventh to 15th place, with Abilene Christian and McNeese State newcomers to the select group. Abilene Christian, 8-1-0, polled one first-place vote and 126 points over-all to gain the 13th spot, while McNeese, 6-2-0, was 15th with 82 points.

Grambling moved from eighth place to seventh, trading places with Elon. Nevada-Las Vegas held ninth, while Boise State moved to 10th from 11th, passing North Dakota State.

South Dakota, Abilene Christian, Delaware and McNeese State closed out the Top 15, with Carson Newman and Montana State being dropped from the standings.

Reggie Jackson Ponders Future

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson, winner of the 1973 American League Most Valuable Player award, now is turning his thoughts to his baseball future.

"There are a lot of things I can do that I haven't done yet. Until I do them, I'm shortchanging myself, the fans and our team owner," the slugging, 27-year-old Oakland A's outfielder said Tuesday after being chosen unanimously as the MVP.

"I've never batted .300 or hit 50 home runs in a season. I haven't won two MVP awards or played on three world championship teams."

The Baseball Writers Association of America, with two writers voting in each American League city, honored Jackson for a season in which he batted .293, hit 32 homers and drove in 117 runs.

Sana And Monos Top MAC Players

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Quarterback Steve Sanna and linebacker Mike Monos are the Mid-American Conference football Players of the Week for the leading roles they played in Miami's 20-10 title-clinching victory at Kent State.

Sanna, a 165-pound junior from Shaker Heights, Ohio, hit 12 of 21 passes for 115 yards and one touchdown and ran the ball six times for 11 yards.

Monos, a 206-pound senior from Niles, Ohio, was in on 30 tackles. Two of his 18 solo stops were behind the line for losses totaling 17 yards. He also forced a fumble and an interception.

Cincinnati Reading Squad High For Game With Ironton

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Reading's players carry extra incentive into their Ohio Class AA high school football playoff game against Ironton Friday night.

The Blue Devils will be playing without their coach, Jerry Daugherty, who is critically ill in a Cincinnati hospital.

Daugherty, 31, a graduate of Northwestern, has been in and out of the hospital frequently in the last two years. He coached Reading to its first eight victories this fall before going back in again.

Daugherty, in his fifth season with the Cincinnati school, hopes to see the championship game if the Blue Devils make it past Ironton at Lancaster.

Larry Holstein and Phil Belmont are handling the squad in Daugherty's absence.

Around Ohio: Cincinnati Moeller led that area in points scored (343) and fewest points allowed (33).

Williamsburg has a 28-0-1 record in the last three seasons under Coach Ken Osborne. Williamsburg compiled a 9-0 mark this fall and won its third Clermont County crown in a row.

Youngstown Mooney halfback Ted Bell has a three-year total of 4,108 rushing yards going into a Class AAA semifinal game against Moeller. Bell has scored 27 touchdowns this season.

Dave Foreman of Ridgewood scored eight touchdowns and eight extra points in a 56-6 romp over Indian Valley South. Tuscarawas Valley posted its 100th victory, beating Tuscarawas Catholic 18-0.

George Murphy, Millersport's 14-year coach, scored his 100th career victory with a 27-0 decision over Amanda-Clearcreek. Ron Stewart established a Lancaster junior rushing record with 1,155 yards after a 208-yard performance last week.

Rich Householder, an Eastern

District Class A sprint champion, sped for four touchdowns in a 41-0 romp over Leetonia.

Canton McKinley outgained Massillon 395-72 in a 21-0 conquest. Massillon, however, leads Ohio's most famous series 42-31-5.

The famed All-American Conference finished in a three-way tie among Massillon, McKinley and Warren Harding. All had 4-1 league records.

Richard Presutti, 6-foot-2, 225-pound two-way tackle at Wellsville, had 115 tackles this season. He also whips the books for a 3.7 scholastic average.

Mount Vernon finished with six straight wins to salvage a 7-3 season. Church Stanley, an end for the Yellow Jackets, caught only nine passes, but seven went for touchdowns this fall.

Local Teams Listed In Computer Ratings

The final standings in the Ohio High School computerized football ratings have been released.

In Class AA Region 8, Teays Valley was eighth, Circleville finished in the 26th spot and Logan Elm was 54th.

Westfall was 27th in Class A Region 12 and Zane trace placed 39th. Amanda-Clearcreek was 44th in Class A Region 11.

Washington C. H., ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press state grid ratings, finished in 15th place in Class AA Region 8.

Wittenberg Remains 6th In Grid Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wittenberg, despite a 9-0-0 record, hasn't been able to crack the Top Five in the Associated Press College Division football poll, apparently because of the keen competition.

The Tigers, who gained two first-place votes and a total of 386 points from a nationwide poll of sportswriters and broadcasters, continued in sixth place, 148 points behind fifth-ranked Louisiana Tech in Tuesday's voting.

There were no changes in the poll's Top Five, led by Tennessee State with an 8-0-0 record, 26 first-place votes and 777 total points. Following Tennessee State were Hawaii, 8-0-0 with four votes for the top spot and 679 points; Western Kentucky, 9-0-0 with three first-place votes and 661 points; Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo at 8-0-0, four votes for No. 1 and 595 points, and Louisiana Tech, 9-10 and 534 points.

Tennessee State held the top spot, beating Central State of Ohio 45-7 last Saturday. Hawaii trounced Santa Clara 40-9, while Western Kentucky drubbed Butler 48-6, Cal Poly SLO crushed Cal Lutheran 63-14, Louisiana Tech topped Lamar 17-3, and Wittenberg bombed Capital 35-7.

There were changes from the seventh to 15th place, with Abilene Christian and McNeese State newcomers to the select group. Abilene Christian, 8-1-0, polled one first-place vote and 126 points over-all to gain the 13th spot, while McNeese, 6-2-0, was 15th with 82 points.

Grambling moved from eighth place to seventh, trading places with Elon. Nevada-Las Vegas held ninth, while Boise State moved to 10th from 11th, passing North Dakota State.

South Dakota, Abilene Christian, Delaware and McNeese State closed out the Top 15, with Carson Newman and Montana State being dropped from the standings.

Reggie Jackson Ponders Future

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson, winner of the 1973 American League Most Valuable Player award, now is turning his thoughts to his baseball future.

"There are a lot of things I can do that I haven't done yet. Until I do them, I'm shortchanging myself, the fans and our team owner," the slugging, 27-year-old Oakland A's outfielder said Tuesday after being chosen unanimously as the MVP.

"I've never batted .300 or hit 50 home runs in a season. I haven't won two MVP awards or played on three world championship teams."

The Baseball Writers Association of America, with two writers voting in each American League city, honored Jackson for a season in which he batted .293, hit 32 homers and drove in 117 runs.

Sana And Monos Top MAC Players

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Quarterback Steve Sanna and linebacker Mike Monos are the Mid-American Conference football Players of the Week for the leading roles they played in Miami's 20-10 title-clinching victory at Kent State.

Sanna, a 165-pound junior from Shaker Heights, Ohio, hit 12 of 21 passes for 115 yards and one touchdown and ran the ball six times for 11 yards.

Monos, a 206-pound senior from Niles, Ohio, was in on 30 tackles. Two of his 18 solo stops were behind the line for losses totaling 17 yards. He also forced a fumble and an interception.

Freshmen Girls First In Vo-Ag

By VANESSA LONG
Freshmen Becky Abernathy and Deeann Born think it's "great" to be the first girls in Westfall's Vo-Ag classes.
According to both Mr. Greer, our guidance counselor and Mr. Ewing, the vo-ag instructor, the girls are doing well. "At first I had my doubts," stated Mr. Greer but I am getting good reports on both girls." Mr. Ewing says that the girls are "doing as good as the boys." He feels they are taking their part in class like any other student would.
Becky lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Abernathy, Sr. in Derby. She came to WHS from Fairbanks Local School near Plain City. The reason she took Vo-ag is to learn something new and later in the future, she wants to own a horse farm.
Deeann lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Quincel, Route 3, Orient. She was a student at Finland Middle School in Columbus before coming to Westfall. Deeann just wants to learn about farming.
The girls are learning to saw wood and make nail and tool boxes. They will learn about tools, livestock, crops and the usage of tractors. Mr. Ewing says he is interested in how they will react to castrating and docking lambs this year, but adds he thinks they'll do their part and he doesn't anticipate any trouble.

Cross Country Season Ended

By RICK METZGER
It proved to be a disappointing year for the Mustang harriers as they recorded their first losing record in years. Part of the reason for this can be attributed to the tough schedule the team faced this year.
The team ran against Lancaster Fisher-Catholic five times during the season, a team that finished eighth in the state meet this year. They ran against Ross County powerhouse Southeastern four times, a team that finished fifth in the district and placed two boys in the State meet.

The Mustangs ran into further trouble from the Bloom-Carroll Bulldogs and the Circleville Tigers, who were both very strong teams. The Tigers nearly shut the Mustangs out in a dual meet as they grabbed six of the first seven places.

The team was further hindered when Carl Fuller, the number 3 man, developed appendicitis midway in the season and was lost for the team's most important meets, the Sectional and District.

Despite all the bad conditions the harriers chalked up several victories over Pickerington, New Albany, St. Bernard, Wherle, Logan Elm, St. Charles, Fairbanks, Cardington, Bloom Local, Highland, Pleasant and several other teams.

The team will be rebuilding next year as it will lose Carl Fuller, Rick Metzger, Jim Mosley, and Bruce Morgan.

Crash Coal Program Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coal, the dethroned king of energy, may regain soon its former status as scientists explore new ways to utilize the nation's most abundant fossil fuel.

More than $3 billion is expected to be spent on a crash coal research program designed to reduce the nation's dependency on oil and natural gas.

Dr. Gorman Smith, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's energy reorganization commission, said recently "the question ... is how coal is to increase its contribution to our energy requirements ..."

Smith, who is drafting a five-year, $10-billion energy research program for President Nixon, predicts more than $3 billion of the total will be spent to find ways to substitute coal for oil and natural gas.

Some of the money already is flowing to researchers. George Fumich, acting director of the Office of Coal Research, said the program "has become a national priority. After years on a starvation diet, we're lately being force fed."

Coal declined as the nation's primary fuel with the availability of cheap natural gas and domestic and imported crude oil. The environmental crusade to clean the nation's air also forced a cutback as utilities and industries switched from coal to cleaner burning fuels.

Research is expected to probe ways to make coal a cleaner fuel by reducing the amount of sulfur and fine soot particles that escape into the atmosphere when the substance is burned.

Scientists also will experiment to find ways to convert coal into a liquid that can be substituted for fuel oil, a process that is the least advanced of all proposed research projects.

Mining techniques, both surface and deep, will come under scrutiny.

"Surface mining techniques have to do with learning how to restore in acceptable ways the land after the (top soil) has been stripped back and you've gotten the coal," said Smith.

New underground or deep mine techniques also must be developed to carve out coal seams in the West that run up to hundreds of feet thick, far larger than in Eastern fields, Smith said.

The research program "foresees some increase in strip mining of coal in the West accompanied by vigorous regulations on restoring the land to acceptable use where that's gone on," he said.

But he noted that "major amounts of coal are still going to have to come up from deep mining techniques simply because that's where most of it is," Smith stated.

Crash Coal Program Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coal, the dethroned king of energy, may regain soon its former status as scientists explore new ways to utilize the nation's most abundant fossil fuel.

More than $3 billion is expected to be spent on a crash coal research program designed to reduce the nation's dependency on oil and natural gas.

Dr. Gorman Smith, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's energy reorganization commission, said recently "the question ... is how coal is to increase its contribution to our energy requirements ..."

Smith, who is drafting a five-year, $10-billion energy research program for President Nixon, predicts more than $3 billion of the total will be spent to find ways to substitute coal for oil and natural gas.

Some of the money already is flowing to researchers. George Fumich, acting director of the Office of Coal Research, said the program "has become a national priority. After years on a starvation diet, we're lately being force fed."

Coal declined as the nation's primary fuel with the availability of cheap natural gas and domestic and imported crude oil. The environmental crusade to clean the nation's air also forced a cutback as utilities and industries switched from coal to cleaner burning fuels.

Research is expected to probe ways to make coal a cleaner fuel by reducing the amount of sulfur and fine soot particles that escape into the atmosphere when the substance is burned.

Scientists also will experiment to find ways to convert coal into a liquid that can be substituted for fuel oil, a process that is the least advanced of all proposed research projects.

Mining techniques, both surface and deep, will come under scrutiny.

"Surface mining techniques have to do with learning how to restore in acceptable ways the land after the (top soil) has been stripped back and you've gotten the coal," said Smith.

New underground or deep mine techniques also must be developed to carve out coal seams in the West that run up to hundreds of feet thick, far larger than in Eastern fields, Smith said.

The research program "foresees some increase in strip mining of coal in the West accompanied by vigorous regulations on restoring the land to acceptable use where that's gone on," he said.

But he noted that "major amounts of coal are still going to have to come up from deep mining techniques simply because that's where most of it is," Smith stated.

Family's Tragedies Continue

CHICAGO (AP) — The first great blow in Gary Cohen's young life came three years ago, and death was hard to fathom.

His mother died of cancer.

The second crushing blow came five months ago. His 15-year-old sister, Janice, accidentally shot herself while handling a gun in the family weapons collection. She was paralyzed from her chin down.

His father, Philip, 38, lonely and pained since his wife's death, was plunged into a mood of despair. He went to the hospital every day and often sat by the girl's bedside throughout the night.

Blow No. 3 came last Friday. Gary walked into his father's bedroom and found him dead — shot with one of the weapons from the collection. Nearby was a note telling of his agony since the death of his wife and the accident that crippled his daughter.

Monday was Veteran's Day and Gary had the day off from school. He was alone in the basement apartment. Police say he went to the weapons collection, took down a 12-gauge shotgun, aimed the muzzle at his head and hooked a toe up against the trigger.

At the age of 13, he shot himself to death.

Sol Cohen spoke painfully of his grandson: "A child doesn't see that there can be a future. He thinks the world disappears with one tragic act."

In the 3,469 years since 1496 B.C., there have been only 230 years of peace throughout the civilized world.

High School Burns Books In Obscenity Controversy

DRAKE, N.D. (AP) — The books have been burned in the high school incinerator, but the controversy over destruction of copies of a best-selling book still rages.

Many residents of this North Dakota town of 600 persons wish they had never heard of the book that was burned — Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse Five."

"They got the books out of the classrooms and that's all we asked," said Mrs. Lester Gerber. "Now I wish we could just let it die."

The Drake School Board burned three dozen copies of Vonnegut's book last week and has ordered the destruction of 60 copies of "Deliverance," by James Dickey, and "Short Story Masterpieces," an anthology of stories by Hemingway, Faulkner, Steinbeck and others.

Mrs. Gerber was among a group of parents who complained about the books because they contained "obscene language."

"The school board decided the books were obscene and they were backed up by some of the local clergy," said Mrs. Bruce Severy, whose husband was teaching from the books.

Mrs. Gerber said the books undermined the morals of the students.

"The newspapers and radio and television make it sound like we burned some hard cover classics," said one school board member who asked not to be named. "You know what we burned? We burned some cheap paperbacks."

Another woman who complained to the school board about the books was Mrs. Koreen Duchscherer, whose daughter first brought the matter to attention.

"If you read this book you know it can be taken only one way," she said. "A man with any gift would not write such filth."

Mrs. Duchscherer said of the incident, "It's nobody's business in New York, Chicago or Bismarck."

Dellis Schrock, president of the state Council of English Teachers, said, "We know that any book to which no one objects is probably valueless."

Government Food Exports Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — With U.S. farm exports soaring to an estimated record of $19 billion this fiscal year, shipments under government-financed aid programs are dropping to an all-time low, says the Agriculture Department.

Shipments under Food for Peace and other aid programs are expected to be about $900 million for the year ending June 30, 1974, the smallest value since the United States began extending massive credit to needy countries nearly 20 years ago.

Many commodities are much higher priced than in the mid-1950s, when Food for Peace started, and, for that matter, more expensive than they were just a year ago. That means the quantity of some items, including wheat, is much less than before on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

But because U.S. stockpiles of wheat and other grain have been depleted sharply by cash customers and huge demands at home, shipments under government programs still are important to U.S. markets and farmers.

The historic years when the United States had mountains of surplus grain and was able to channel much of it to hungry nations, however, are long past. For example, in 1972-73 about 108 million bushels of wheat were exported under Food for Peace and other aid programs, down from nearly 191 million in 1971-72.

Although still substantial in their effect on U.S. grain supplies, those wheat sales were far below the 500 million bushels a year shipped under aid programs in the mid-1960s.

At that time, however, wheat surpluses were large and farmers were getting far less for their grain. In 1963-64, for example, about 550 million bushels of wheat were exported under government programs at a time when farmers got an average of about $1.35 per bushel.

Last year, the season farm price average for wheat was $1.80 per bushel nationally, and that does not indicate what has happened more recently. By last September, the national wheat price average at the farm was $4.62 per bushel. Although down recently, it was still about $4.22 in October, according to USDA.

NEW YORK (AP) "Support Your Local Police," says the poster hanging in Bumper Morgan's locker. Three words spray-painted on the poster sum up his idea of support: "Be a Snitch."

It's one of many casually realistic touches scattered about "The Blue Knight," an excellent four-part mini-series NBC-TV is running this week, with the second episode airing tonight.

You ought to catch this show if you've the time, because it's one of the few on TV that really works at trying to honestly depict the attitude and emotions of an ordinary cop on the beat.

Based on the best-selling novel by Sgt. Joseph Wambaugh, a Los Angeles policeman, the TV version of "Blue Knight" is a far, far cry from the clean-cut saintliness of "Adam-12."

It has William Holden perfectly cast as Bumper Morgan, a sardonic, hard-as-nails Los Angeles patrolman whose 20 years on the downtown beat have honed his skills to a fine edge while leaving him an emotionally weary man who operates mainly on reflex and instinct.

At 49, he's the kind of cop whose breed is dwindling. He'd rather walk a beat than patrol in a car. As he puts it, "all the good busts come from walking and talking and looking."

He smokes cigars on duty and accepts small freebies. And he often bends, if not violates, Supreme Court guidelines for probable cause, search and seizure if he thinks it's warranted.

His fiancée (Lee Remick), a college professor, kids him about his "police discounts" and devotion to work: "You're my blue knight in a black and white charger ... you joust and live off the land."

"Try roust," he wryly suggests, using the police term for harassment of suspects.

The four shows concern Morgan's reluctant decision to "pull the pin" — retire — at the end of a week he begins by finding the body of a murdered prostitute in the Los Angeles River.

The lady turns out to be one of his "snitches" — informants — and he vows to find her killer before he hands in his badge.

He conducts his private search while on his regular beat in a sleazy downtown arena of pimps, junkies and hustlers. It's more than a search, though. It's a farewell tour.

"I just love the battle," he finally admits when asked by one informant, a stripper, why he's pushing so hard on the case.

It's a fascinating battle, full of sharp, penetrating looks at both the seamy life and the clannish, argumentative world of police, a world few really see unless they're in handcuffs.

Plant Shutdowns In Ohio Future

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The combination of a fuel shortage and the vast heat needs of the Cleveland area industrial centers could lead to layoffs and production cutbacks within a month, industrial spokesmen indicate.

But Campbell Elliott, president of the Greater Cleveland Growth Association, and other members of the Mayor's Commission on Energy Conservation indicated they don't agree.

Ohio Brass President Louis J. Ott said in Mansfield that he has less than two weeks' supply of fuel for his foundry and that "we stand to lay off 2,200 people" if he can't get more. The layoffs would affect Mansfield and Barberton in Ohio and Newell, W. Va., where Ohio Brass has a plant similar to its Barberton facility.

Spokesmen for Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., the Cleveland construction industry and Republic Steel Corp., described varying fuel supply problems.

If the supply situation becomes tighter, they said Tuesday, layoffs and less production are likely to follow quickly.

A Jones and Laughlin spokesman in Pittsburgh said that point could be reached Jan. 1 for its blast furnaces in Cleveland.

Elliott, however, said there are no indications at present that factories will have to close, adding: "But the weather will have to cooperate." The situation must be viewed as a serious problem, he said, which "will be maximized by a severe winter and minimized by a mild winter."

The comments followed reports of remarks made by Edmund J. Turk, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, in conversation at a party Monday night in Cleveland. Turk said then that schools and factories may close in December or January, that gasoline may hit $1 a gallon, and that the nation may be heading for "the biggest economic depression this country has ever had."

Jerry City Women Form Fire Brigade

JERRY CITY, Ohio (AP) — Spurred to action by a recent tragic fire, 20 housewives in this small northwestern Ohio community have formed a brigade to man the firehouse during the day while their husbands are away at work.

The idea to form a female unit in the volunteer fire department grew after the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Trevino died in a mobile home fire last month.

That fire occurred overnight, and Fire Chief George Loomis said the firefighters couldn't have prevented the deaths. Most of the children died of smoke inhalation.

"But I've always thought about what would happen during the day if something like this happened," he said. The volunteer firemen are at work during the day, he said, and many of them have jobs out of town.

Loomis said the women will begin instruction soon on how to drive the trucks and work the pumps. Since Jerry City doesn't have any fire hydrants, he said, the women must learn to fill the trucks with water from a pond or quarry.

But Loomis said he isn't going to expect too much of them.

"It's up to the women as to what they want to tackle," he said. "But I would like them to at least be able to drive the trucks."

Plant Shutdowns In Ohio Future

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The combination of a fuel shortage and the vast heat needs of the Cleveland area industrial centers could lead to layoffs and production cutbacks within a month, industrial spokesmen indicate.

But Campbell Elliott, president of the Greater Cleveland Growth Association, and other members of the Mayor's Commission on Energy Conservation indicated they don't agree.

Ohio Brass President Louis J. Ott said in Mansfield that he has less than two weeks' supply of fuel for his foundry and that "we stand to lay off 2,200 people" if he can't get more.
